

Please see below the great news we, the Bonnechere Algonquin First Nation, can share with everyone. Our Chief/ANR, Richard Zohr, has been working extremely hard on this project and we now will see it in fruition.

“Through the incredible commitment of financial support provided by our federal and provincial government partners, the Town of Renfrew will see the creation of a community hub that provides a central access point for a range of much needed health, cultural, recreational, and green spaces to nourish community life. Our relationship with our Algonquin friends is a long-standing one, and so I’m pleased that today’s announcement makes possible the creation of the Bonnechere Algonquin First Nation Indigenous Cultural Centre which will nurture bi-cultural awareness through the sharing of traditions, customs, values, spirituality and the life-sustaining resources of the land.”

"Following a substantial amount of hard work, it is with great satisfaction that we can announce the creation of the Bonnechere Algonquin First Nation Indigenous Cultural Centre. This partnership between the Algonquin community and the Town of Renfrew is a testimony to the friendship, respect and trust that we have built up together and has made this project possible. The creation of the cultural centre will provide the tools needed to further help us understand our shared and common values, as we continue to build on the awareness of our traditional customs, we can work together to address the challenges of reconciliation."
